NIFTY – 23,897.70 (Daily Chart)

• In Friday's trading session, the Nifty opened on a positive note and gradually moved northward during the first half of the session. In the second half, the index remained largely sideways for most of the session, but a strong bearish move towards the end wiped out most of the gains, resulting in a flattish close.

• On a daily scale, the index has formed a Doji candlestick pattern, indicating indecisiveness among market participants. The index continues to maintain its bearish structure, forming a pattern of lower lows and lower highs. It also continues to trade below the 30 DEMA, indicating that bearish momentum remains intact. The recent low of 23,786 will act as a significant support level, and the index needs to defend this level to put a pause on the ongoing bearish momentum.

• For Monday's trading session, 23,870 will act as the initial support level, while on the higher end, 24,000 will act as a psychological resistance level.

BANK NIFTY – 57,369.65 (Daily Chart)

• In Friday's trading session, the banking index opened on a positive note and gradually moved northward during the first half of the session. However, in the second half, the index gradually moved southward, erasing all its gains and closing on a flattish note with a negative bias.

• On a daily scale, the index has formed a bearish candle with an upper wick, indicating selling pressure at higher levels. The index continues to trade within the broad range of 57,000–58,260. A decisive breakout on either side of this range will determine the future course of the trend.

• For Monday's trading session, 57,325 will act as the initial support level, while on the higher end, 57,620 will act as the initial resistance level.
